15.1 “USED TO”

“Used to” can be used with the base form of a verb to talk about past habits.

Refers to a past habit.

We used to play tennis every day, but now we prefer golf.

The diagram illustrates a change over time. On the left, under the heading 'PAST', there are four purple stick figures playing tennis. An arrow points to the right, labeled 'NOW', where two green stick figures are shown playing golf. This visualizes the shift from a past habit to a present preference.

“Used to” can also be used to talk about fixed states at some indefinite time in the past.

Refers to a past state.

We used to live in London before we moved to Sydney.

The diagram illustrates a change over time. On the left, under the heading 'PAST', there are two blue stick figures standing in front of the London skyline, which includes the London Eye and the Tower Bridge. The past continuous shouldn't be used to talk about past habits.

15.2 ANOTHER WAY TO SAY "USED TO" WITH HABITS

"Used to" can be replaced by "would" in writing and formal speech, but only to talk about past habits. These statements often include a reference to time to describe when, or how often something happened.

"Would" cannot be used in this way with state verbs.

To offer to do something for someone.

You look frozen. I'll make you some hot soup.

To make a promise.

We'll be there by eight. Don't worry!

20.1 THE FUTURE CONTINUOUS WITH WILL

The future continuous describes an event that will be in progress at a given time in the future which is often stated. The event will start before the stated time and may continue after it.

PRESENT CONTINUOUS

In 10 years' time, I hope I will be running a bistro.

FUTURE CONTINUOUS

HOW TO FORM

FURTHER EXAMPLES

This time next week, we will be walking in the Andes.

Emma will be starting school in September.

20.2 THE FUTURE CONTINUOUS WITH "ANYWAY"

The future continuous can also be used to talk about events that are going to happen as a matter of course or "anyway."

Oh no, I've run out of milk.

I can get some for you later.

No, please don't worry!

It's okay, I'll be driving past the store anyway.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

You can send the parcel here.
I'll be waiting in the house anyway.

I can give that to Freda for you.
I'll be seeing her for lunch.

"Anyway" is implied here.

20.3 NEUTRAL QUESTIONS

The future continuous is also used to ask neutral questions: questions asked for information, not to make a request.

NEUTRAL QUESTION

Future continuous.

Will you be coming into work tomorrow?

Yes, I will.

OK, let's talk about the report then.

REQUEST

Future simple.

Will you come into work tomorrow please?

Sure, no problem

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Will you be driving past the post office later?

Will you be attending the meeting this afternoon?

20.4 THE FUTURE CONTINUOUS TO TALK ABOUT THE PRESENT

You can also use the future continuous to speculate about what is happening at the present moment.

Have you noticed that Andrew isn't at work today?

It's more likely that he'll be watching the golf on TV!

He'll be working on his presentation at home.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Why isn't Xavier here today?

He'll be finishing off his report for the annual meeting.

Why is Nev late?

He'll be taking his children to school.

Where is Sarah?

She'll be studying in the library probably.

Is Phoebe at home?

No, she's not here. She'll be playing with Ciara at the park, probably.

Have you seen Roberta?

No, but she's going out later, so I think she'll be getting ready.

20.5 THE FUTURE CONTINUOUS WITH "GOING TO"

The future continuous can sometimes be formed with "going to" instead of "will," but this is less common. It can be used in most future continuous constructions except to speculate about the present.

I can't come out this evening.
I'm going to be studying all night.

HOW TO FORM

FURTHER EXAMPLES

I want to go away on Saturday, but I'm going to be working all weekend.

I'd love to go out on Thursday, but I'm going to be finishing this essay.

Shall we have lunch next week? I'm going to be visiting your city.

See also:
Past continuous 10

22.1 THE FUTURE IN THE PAST USING "WAS GOING TO"

The future in the past is used to look back on an earlier prediction.

Where "going to" is used to talk about the future from the present, "was / were going to" is used to talk about a past view of it.

This traffic is awful! I think I'm going to be late for work.

I thought I was going to be late, but I'm right on time.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

23 Future overview

23.1 THE FUTURE

The present simple can be used to talk about events that are timetabled or scheduled to take place in the future.

The train arrives at 10pm.

The present continuous can be used to talk about future arrangements and plans.

I'm traveling to Paris by train later this evening.

The simple future is the most common form used to refer to an event in the future.

It { will is going to } rain tomorrow.

The future continuous describes an event that will be in progress at a given time in the future. The event will start before the stated time and may continue after it.

It { will is going to } be raining all weekend.

23.2 "GOING TO" AND "WILL"

English uses both "going to" and "will" to talk about the future. They can sometimes have a very similar meaning, but there are certain situations where they mean different things.

"Will" is used to make predictions that aren't based on present evidence.

This is a prediction without firm evidence.

I think Number 2 will win.

"Going to" is used when there is evidence in the present moment to support a prediction.

Look, Number 2 is going to win.

English uses different constructions to talk about the future. These are mostly formed with the auxiliary verb "will" or a form of "be" with "going to."

See also:
The future with "going to" 17
The future with "will" 18

The future perfect is used to predict when an action or event will be finished. This tense looks back from an imagined time in the future.

They will have built the skyscraper by next year.

The future perfect continuous is used to predict the eventual duration of an activity. This tense looks back from the endpoint of the action.

By July, they will have been working on it for a year.

"Will" is used when a decision is made at the time of speaking.

I know! I'll buy Jo a surfboard for her birthday.

"Going to" is used when talking about a decision that has already been made.

I'm going to buy her a surfboard that I saw last week.

The future in the past describes thoughts about the future that someone had at some point in the past. There are three ways to form this construction.

The traffic was terrible, so I knew I was going to be late.

"Am going to" becomes "was going to."

"Will" becomes "would."

I thought I would finish the gardening by the end of the day.

I was nervous on Sunday night. I was starting a new job the next day.

"Am starting" becomes "was starting."

This decision was not planned in advance.

This decision has already been planned.

24 The passive

In most sentences, the subject carries out an action and the object receives it, or the result of it. In passive sentences, this is reversed: the subject receives the action.

See also:

Present simple 1 Present continuous 4
Infinitives and participles 51

24.1 THE PRESENT SIMPLE PASSIVE

Passive sentences take emphasis away from the agent (the person or thing doing the action), and put it on the action itself, or the person or thing receiving the action.

In the present simple passive, the present simple verb becomes a past participle.

Many people study this book.

The focus is on "many people."

The subject of the active sentence is "many people."

This book is studied by many people.

The focus is on "this book," which is the subject of the passive sentence.

"Study" changes to "is studied."

FURTHER EXAMPLES

The passive is used when the agent is obvious, unknown, or unimportant. It is also useful when describing a process where the result of the action is important.

The speaker doesn't mention the agent because the verb obviously refers to the police.

Criminals are arrested every day in this town.

The agent is not mentioned because the process is more important.

Are the posters printed on quality paper?

"Be" and the subject swap places to form questions.

HOW TO FORM

All passives use a form of "be" with a past participle. The agent (the thing doing the action) can be introduced with "by," but the sentence would still make sense without it.

"BY"

29 Conditional sentences

Conditional sentences are used to describe real or hypothetical results of real or hypothetical situations. They can use many different verb forms.

See also:

Present simple 1 Imperatives 6
Past simple 7 Future with "will" 18

29.1 THE ZERO CONDITIONAL

The zero conditional, also called the "real" conditional, refers to things that are always true. It is used to describe the direct result of an action.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

If you heat ice, it melts.

When you put a rock in water, it sinks.

If you drop an apple, it falls.

Oil floats when you pour it onto water.

HOW TO FORM

29.2 CONDITIONALS WITH IMPERATIVES

Imperatives can be used in conditional sentences. The "if" clause describes a hypothetical situation and the imperative clause describes what someone should do if that hypothetical situation actually happens.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

If you feel sick, call a doctor.

If the dog's hungry, feed him.

If the traffic is bad, cycle to work.

If the children behave badly, call me.

Don't stay up late if you're tired.

The order is reversed, so there is no comma.

Let me know if you need help.

HOW TO FORM

29.3 THE FIRST CONDITIONAL

The first conditional, also called the “future real” conditional, uses “if” to describe a realistic action that might lead to a future result.

HOW TO FORM

The first conditional is usually introduced by an “if” clause, followed by the present simple. The future with “will” expresses the result.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

If I go jogging, I'll lose weight.

If it snows, I'll go skiing.

If we go to Africa, we'll go on safari.

If I get the job, I'll buy a new suit.

If I cook, will you do the dishes?

I won't go outside if it rains.

29.4 THE SECOND CONDITIONAL

The second conditional, also called the “unreal” conditional, uses “if” to describe an unlikely or unreal action or event. The described result is also very unlikely.

HOW TO FORM

The second conditional is usually introduced by an “if” clause with a past simple verb. “Would” or “could” plus the base form of the main verb expresses the result.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

If he wasn't so busy, he'd take a break.

I'd call her if I knew her number.

If I moved to Scotland, I'd live in a cottage.

If I saw a ghost, I would be terrified.

If I had more time, I could take up karate.

If I learned English, I could visit London.

29.5 THE THIRD CONDITIONAL

The third conditional, also called the “past unreal” conditional, is used to describe unreal situations in the past. It is often used to express regret about the past because the hypothetical situation that it describes is now impossible as a consequence of another past action.

UNREAL PAST SITUATION

UNREAL PAST RESULT

If we had left earlier, we would have caught the train.

This didn't happen.

So this didn't happen either.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

If I had woken up on time,
I would have done my hair.

If you had been wearing a coat,
you might have stayed warm.

“Might” means this possibly would have happened.

If I had studied harder,
I could have been a doctor.

“Could” means this possibly would have happened.

If I had known it was your birthday,
I would have bought you a present.

HOW TO FORM

“IF”

“HAD” + PAST PARTICIPLE

If

we had left earlier

“WOULD / COULD / MIGHT”

we would

“HAVE” + PAST PARTICIPLE

have caught the train.

The “if” clause is the unreal past condition.

Using different modals changes the certainty of the imagined result.

The conditional clause is the unreal result.

29.6 THE MIXED CONDITIONAL

SECOND CONDITIONAL

The second conditional is used to talk about hypothetical situations in the present.

PAST SIMPLE

If I didn't believe in astrology,
I wouldn't read my horoscope.

"WOULD" + INFINITIVE

THIRD CONDITIONAL

The third conditional is used to talk about hypothetical situations in the past.

PAST PERFECT

If I had known he was an Aquarius,
I would not have gone out with him.

"WOULD" + "HAVE" + PAST PARTICIPLE

MIXED CONDITIONAL

Mixed conditionals are usually used to talk about hypothetical present results of unreal past situations.

If you had been born a month earlier, you would be a Virgo like me.

Unreal past.

Unreal present.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

If you hadn't forgotten to bring the keys, we wouldn't be locked out of the house.

Mixed conditionals refer to future situations when used with future time markers.

You would be starting at a new school tomorrow if you hadn't failed your exams.

Mixed conditionals are often used to express regret.

If I had finished my assignment sooner,
I could be out with my friends today.

We would be on a beach in Greece by now if we hadn't missed our flight.

30 Other conditional sentences

English allows for some variations in conditional sentence structures. These give more information about the context of the conditional.

See also:
Future with "will" 18
Modal verbs 56

30.1 CONDITIONAL SENTENCES WITH MODAL VERBS

First, second, and third conditional sentences can use different modal verbs in their "result" clauses. These can be used to express uncertainty, possibility, or obligation, amongst other things.

FIRST CONDITIONAL

In the first conditional, "will" can be replaced by a variety of modal verbs to talk about different ideas.

If I save enough money, I will buy a new car.

If I save enough money, I can buy a new car.

Different modal verbs can go here.

SECOND CONDITIONAL

In the second conditional, "would" can be replaced by "could" or "might" to express ability, possibility, or uncertainty.

If I saved enough money, I would buy a new car.

If I saved enough money, I { could might } buy a new car.

THIRD CONDITIONAL

In the third conditional, "would" can be replaced by "could" or "might" to express ability, possibility, or uncertainty.

If I had saved enough money, I would have bought a new car.

If I had saved enough money, I { could might } have bought a new car.

30.2 FIRST CONDITIONAL WITH "UNLESS"

"Unless" can be used instead of "if" in conditional sentences. "Unless" means "if... not," so the future result depends on the suggested action not happening.

If you don't
Unless you } study hard, you will fail your exams.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

If you don't
Unless you } get up now, you'll be late for work.

I'll be angry { if he doesn't turn unless he turns } that music down.

30.3 FORMAL THIRD CONDITIONAL

The third conditional can be made more formal by swapping "had" with the subject and dropping "if."

If you had attended the meeting, you would have met the manager.

Had you attended the meeting, you would have met the manager.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Had I worked harder at school,
I could have studied medicine.

Had you listened to the directions,
we would have arrived on time.

Had she woken up earlier, she wouldn't have been late.

Had we bought that house,
we couldn't have afforded this trip.

31 Conditional sentences overview

31.1 TYPES OF CONDITIONAL

The zero conditional is used to talk about situations that will always happen. It is used to talk about general truths.

PRESENT SIMPLE
If you play the violin out of tune, it sounds terrible.
PRESENT SIMPLE

The second conditional is used to talk about hypothetical situations that are very unlikely to happen, but are usually still possible.

PAST SIMPLE
If I practiced more, that song would sound better.
"WOULD" + BASE FORM

31.2 USING COMMAS IN CONDITIONAL SENTENCES

When the action comes before the result, a comma separates the two clauses of the conditional sentence. However, when the result comes first, no comma is used.

A comma is used if the action comes first.

When you freeze water, ice forms.

The result can come at the beginning of the sentence.

Ice forms when you freeze water.

"If" or "when" can sit between the action and result, without a comma.

There are four types of conditional sentences. The zero conditional refers to real situations, but the first, second, and third conditionals all refer to hypothetical situations.

If I practice really hard, this song will sound great.

"WILL" + BASE FORM

The third conditional is used to talk about hypothetical situations that definitely will not happen. The result is no longer possible because of the imaginary cause in the past.

PAST PERFECT

If I had practiced more,
I would have sounded better.

"WOULD" + "HAVE" + PAST PARTICIPLE

COMMON MISTAKES USING OTHER TENSES IN CONDITIONAL SENTENCES

"Will," "would," and "would have" should not be used in the "if" clause when forming conditional sentences.

If I will work really hard, this piece will sound great. ✗

"Will" doesn't go in the "if" clause.

If I would practice more, that piece would sound better. ✗

"Would" doesn't go in the "if" clause.

If I would have practiced more, I would have sounded better. ✗

"Would have" doesn't go in the "if" clause.

32 Future possibilities

There are many ways to talk about imaginary future situations. Different structures can be used to indicate whether a situation is likely or unlikely.

32.1 LIKELY FUTURE POSSIBILITIES

"What if" or "suppose" followed by the present tense can be used to express a future outcome that is likely to happen.

"What if" means "what would happen if an imagined situation occurred?"

What if
Suppose

I fail my exams? I won't be able to go to college.

Present tense shows the speaker believes this is likely to happen.

"Suppose" refers to the consequences of an imagined situation.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

What if the computer crashes?
I will lose all my work.

Suppose they assess our coursework.
We will have to keep a portfolio.

32.2 UNLIKELY FUTURE POSSIBILITIES

"What if" or "suppose" followed by the past simple can be used to express a future outcome that is possible, but unlikely to happen.

The past tense shows the speaker thinks this is unlikely to happen.

Just imagine! { What if Suppose } we all got 100% on our exams?

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Suppose I got caught cheating.
My parents would be furious.

What if our flight was canceled?
We'd be stuck here!

32.3 THINGS THAT COULD HAVE HAPPENED

"What if" and "suppose" can also be used with the past perfect to describe situations that were possible in the past, but that didn't happen, or might not have happened.

That was so dangerous!

Suppose }

you had broken your leg?

The past perfect shows that this didn't happen, but it was possible.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

What if it hadn't been delayed?

Suppose you had taken the job.

32.4 IN CASE

"In case" or "just in case" plus the present tense are used to show planning for a possible future situation.

in case the cat tries to escape.

Present tense.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

We should start organizing our project work, just in case they want to see it.

"Just" is added to "in case" to talk about preparation for a situation that is less likely.

33 Wishes and regrets

English uses the verb "wish" to talk about present and past regrets. The tense of the verb that follows "wish" affects the meaning of the sentence.

See also:

33.1 "WISH" AND PAST SIMPLE

"Wish" is used with the past simple to express regrets and desires about the present, which could still happen or come true.

The negative form "ought not to have" is rarely used in UK English and never used in US English.
I shouldn't have fallen asleep with the TV on.

34 Forming questions

If a statement uses "be" or an auxiliary verb, its question form is made by inverting that verb and the subject. Any other question is formed by adding "do" or "does."

35 Question words

Present simple 1 Question words 35
Verbs 49

36.1 OPEN QUESTIONS WITH "BE"

If the main verb of the sentence is "be," the question word goes at the beginning of the question and the form of "be" goes straight after it.

My name is Sarah.
What is your name?

Who should I call?

This auxiliary verb is already in the sentence, so it stays in the question.

When do you eat lunch?

The question word goes at the beginning.

Auxiliary "do" follows the question word.

The main verb changes to its base form.

There are two kinds of question: object questions and subject questions. They are formed in different ways and are used to ask about different things.

See also:

Present simple 1 Types of verbs 49
Verbs with objects 53

37.1 OBJECT QUESTIONS

Use object questions to ask who received an action, not who did the action. They are called object questions because the question word is the object of the main verb.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

What did he eat?

He ate steak and salad.

Who did you speak to?

I spoke to Jane.

HOW TO FORM

37.2 SUBJECT QUESTIONS

Subject questions are used to ask who did an action. They are called subject questions because the question word is the subject of the main verb. They do not use the auxiliary verb "do."

FURTHER EXAMPLES

HOW TO FORM

"Who" and "what" are the most common pronouns used in subject questions.

COMMON MISTAKES OBJECT AND SUBJECT QUESTIONS

Object questions must use a form of the auxiliary "do."

What did you see?

"Did" is the auxiliary verb in this object question.

What saw you?

Do not use inversion to form object questions.

Subject questions do not use an auxiliary verb and the word order stays the same as in a normal statement.

Who called the bank?

The word order stays the same as a normal statement.

Who did call the bank?

"Do" is only used as an auxiliary verb when forming object questions.

38 Indirect questions

Indirect questions are more polite than direct questions.

They are very common in formal spoken English, particularly when asking for information.

See also:

Present simple 1 Forming questions 34

Types of verbs 49

38.1 INDIRECT OPEN QUESTIONS

Indirect questions often start with a polite opening phrase. After the question word, the word order in indirect questions is the same as in positive statements.

Do you know
Could you tell me }

Where is the station?

where the station is?

Indirect questions start with an opening phrase.

The verb comes after the subject.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Do you know how much the tickets will cost?

Could you tell me what time the stores close?

Could you tell me why you were late?

Indirect questions leave out the auxiliary verb "do."

HOW TO FORM

OPENING PHRASE

QUESTION WORD

where

SUBJECT

the station

VERB

is?

A polite opening phrase comes first.

38.2 INDIRECT CLOSED QUESTIONS

Indirect closed questions are formed using "if" or "whether." In this context, "if" and "whether" mean the same thing.

Is it raining outside?

Could you tell me { if whether } it is raining outside?

Polite opening phrase

The subject comes before the verb.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Do you know if that restaurant is expensive?

Could you tell me whether the train is on time?

HOW TO FORM

OPENING PHRASE

"IF / WHETHER"

SUBJECT

VERB

REST OF SENTENCE

Do you know

it

is raining outside?

COMMON MISTAKES WORD ORDER WITH INDIRECT QUESTIONS

When a question has an opening phrase, the word order in indirect questions is the same as in a statement. There is no inversion, and "do" is not added.

Could you tell me where the station is? ✓

Could you tell me where is the station? ✗

Could you tell me when you close? ✓

Could you tell me when do you close? ✗

39 Question tags

In spoken English, small questions are often added to the ends of sentences. These are called question tags, and they are most often used to invite someone to agree.

See also:

Present simple 1 Past simple 7

39.1 QUESTION TAGS USING "BE"

The simplest question tags use the verb "be" with a pronoun matching the subject of the sentence.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

You're cold, aren't you?

A set of three red icons: a person running with a briefcase, a person standing with hands on hips, and another person standing.

I'm late, aren't I?

A red icon depicting three stylized human figures standing together, representing a group or community.

He was tall, wasn't he?

I'm not talking too much, am I?

HOW TO FORM

A positive statement is followed by a negative question tag, and a negative statement is followed by a positive question tag.

TIP
Question tags are mostly used in informal situations.

POSITIVE STATEMENT

The music is very loud,

Verb is positive

NEGATIVE QUESTION TAG

isn't it?

NEGATIVE STATEMENT

The music isn't very loud,

Verb is negative.

Question tag uses positive form of verb.

POSITIVE QUESTION TAG

is it?

39.2 QUESTION TAGS USING AUXILIARY VERBS

For most verbs other than "be," a present simple statement is followed by a question tag with "do" or "does."

A past simple statement is followed by a question tag with "did."

A statement with an auxiliary verb is followed by a question tag with the same auxiliary verb.

Statements with modal verbs such as "could," "would," and "should" are followed by question tags that use the same modal verb.

39.3 INTONATION WITH QUESTION TAGS

If the intonation goes up at the end of the question tag, it is a question requiring an answer.

You'd like to move offices, wouldn't you?

[I am asking whether or not you would like to move offices.]

If the intonation goes down at the end of a question tag, the speaker is just inviting the listener to agree.

You've already met Evelyn, haven't you?

[I already know you've met Evelyn.]

40 Short questions

Short questions are a way of showing interest during conversation. They're used to keep conversation going, rather than to ask for new information.

See also:

Present simple 1 Forming questions 34
Types of verbs 49

40.1 SHORT QUESTIONS

Short questions must be in the same tense as the statement they're responding to. If the statement is positive, the short question should be positive and vice versa. The subject from the statement is replaced with the relevant pronoun.

It's Tom's birthday today.

Is it?

For statements using "be," the short question uses the same form of "be."

I play golf every weekend.

Do you?

For other verbs, a form of "do" is used.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

I am going to visit my parents next week.

Are you?

"I am" becomes "are you" because it is directed back at the speaker.

I went to a party last night.

Did you?

The past simple of "do" is used to match "went," which is the past simple of "go."

Rob wasn't in the office this morning.

Wasn't he?

The negative is used to match the statement.

My son studies every night.

Does he?

The third person form "does" is used to match "studies."

40.2 SHORT QUESTIONS WITH AUXILIARY VERBS

If a statement contains an auxiliary verb, including modal verbs, that auxiliary verb is repeated in the short question.

Have you?

Here, "have" is an auxiliary verb forming the present perfect.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

I couldn't wait to come to work today.

Couldn't you?

The subject and verb are not inverted, but this is said with a rising intonation.

See also:

Present simple 1 Types of verbs 49

41.1 SHORT ANSWERS

41.2 SHORT ANSWERS WITH AUXILIARY VERBS

No, there isn't.

Short for: "No, there isn't a hotel in the town."

42.4 CLOSED AND OPEN QUESTIONS

Closed questions can only be answered with "yes" or "no." When they are spoken, the voice often rises at the end of the question.

46.2 REPORTING OTHER VERBS WITH NEGATIVES

If a reporting verb is followed by an object and an infinitive, "not" goes between the object and the infinitive to form the negative.

Forming questions 34

Open questions 36 Types of verbs 49

47.1 REPORTED OPEN QUESTIONS

Direct open questions are reported by swapping the order of the subject and the verb.

The tense in reported questions usually moves one tense back from the tense in direct questions.

HOW TO FORM

The object can be left out.

The subject comes before the verb in reported questions.

48.2 REPORTING VERBS IN THE PRESENT TENSE

The reporting verb can be in the present tense. In this case, the tense of the sentence doesn't change.

When forming reported speech from direct speech, some words change in order to keep the meaning consistent. Other words stay the same.

She said she could have bought one.

The reported verb also doesn't change from direct speech.

49.2 AUXILIARY VERBS

Auxiliary verbs are used with main verbs to modify their meaning. Auxiliary verbs are used very frequently to form different tenses.

The auxiliary verb "do" is used to make questions and negatives of statements that don't already have an auxiliary verb.

Linking verbs express a state of being or becoming. They link a subject to a complement, which renames or describes the subject.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Whatever you're cooking smells delicious!

Some verbs can be either transitive or intransitive.

Some verbs can take two objects, a direct object and an indirect object.

51.1 INFINITIVES

The infinitive is the simplest form of the verb. English verbs have two types of infinitive.

When the infinitive is formed without "to," it is known as the base or simple form, or the bare infinitive.

51.2 PRESENT PARTICIPLES AND GERUNDS

Present participles and gerunds are formed by adding “-ing” to the base form of the verb. They are spelled the same, but they perform different functions in a sentence.

Present participles are most commonly used with auxiliary verbs to form continuous tenses.

Gerunds are verbs that are used as nouns. They are sometimes known as verbal nouns.

51.3 PRESENT PARTICIPLE AND GERUND SPELLING RULES

See also:

55 Phrasal verbs

See also: Verb patterns with objects 53
Prepositions 105 Separable phrasal verbs R20

Pronoun

He picked it up.

The pronoun cannot go at the end of the sentence.

55.4 INSEPARABLE PHRASAL VERBS

Some phrasal verbs cannot be separated. The object must always come after the particle; it can never sit between the particle and the verb. This is true whether the object is a noun or a pronoun.

The verb and the particle must stay together.

We had to run to get on the train.

This is wrong. The object can't sit

Three-word phrasal verbs have a verb, a particle, and a preposition. The particle and preposition often change the usual meaning of the verb.

VERB + PARTICLE + PREPOSITION

He looks up to his brother.

The verb changes with the subject.

The particle and preposition never change form.

INTONATION

In spoken English, the stress is on the middle word of a three-word phrasal verb.

look up to   get along with   look forward to

FURTHER EXAMPLES

We have run out of coffee, so I'll get some more.

You're walking too fast, I can't keep up with you.

I must have dropped my keys when I was getting out of the car.

TIP

Most, but not all, three-word phrasal verbs are inseparable.

55.6 "GET BACK FROM"

"Get back from" can be separable or inseparable depending on the context.

When "get back from" means "to return from," it is always inseparable.

I got back from Italy yesterday.

When "get back from" means "to retrieve from" it is separable. The object must go between "get" and "back."

I need to get the lawn mower back from Tina.

55.7 NOUNS BASED ON PHRASAL VERBS

Some nouns are made from phrasal verbs, often formed by joining the verb and the particle together. When these words are spoken, the stress is usually on the verb.

The teacher asked me to hand out the exam papers.

Verb

Particle

The teacher gave us a handout for the lesson.

Stress is on the first syllable.

Sometimes, the noun is formed by putting the particle in front of the verb. In these cases, the spoken stress is usually on the particle.

Modal verbs share certain characteristics. They don't change form to match the subject, and they are always followed by a main verb in its base form. Their question and negative forms are made without "do."

The modal verb stays the same for any subject.

The main verb stays in its base form.

Negatives are formed by adding "not" between the modal verb and main verb.

You should run a marathon.

You should not run a marathon.

Questions are usually formed by swapping the subject and the modal verb.

They should visit the castle.

Should they visit the castle?

"Ought to" and "have to" are exceptions because they use "to" before the base form. "Ought to" is a more formal way of saying "should," and "have to" means "must." They both act like normal verbs.

You { ought to } have to learn how to drive.

57 Ability

"Will can" is incorrect.

The negative is formed with "not able to" or "unable to."

If I don't learn, {I won't be able will be unable} to join the orchestra.

"Will be unable to" can also be used, but it's less common.

59.4 "HAD BETTER"

{ You had better } leave for school! It's already 8.45.

59.5 "COULD" FOR SUGGESTIONS

"Could" is often used to suggest a solution to a problem. It states a possible course of action without necessarily recommending it.

a new car.

"Could" is a modal verb, so it doesn't change with the subject.

The main verb stays in its base form.

When people give suggestions using "could," they often give more than one option to choose from.

We could make a salad or we could order a pizza.

"Or" is used to give an alternative suggestion.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

The modal verb doesn't have to be repeated after "or."

You could wear your new dress or a skirt.

If the main verb is the same for both suggestions, it isn't repeated after "or."

59.7 MAKING RECOMMENDATIONS

One of the most common ways of recommending something or making a suggestion is to use modal verbs.

TIP

Emphasis can be added by putting "really" in front of "should," "ought to," and "must."

COMMON MISTAKES “MUST NOT” AND “DON’T HAVE TO”

“Will must” is incorrect.

“Must not” does not have a future form. “Don’t have to” can be used in the future by changing “don’t” to “will not” or “won’t.”

One day, I hope I will not have to work so hard.

60.3 “MUST” AND “HAVE TO” IN THE PAST

64 Articles overview

64.1 USING ARTICLES

SINGULAR NOUNS

Singular nouns must be used with an article. The definite article ("the") or indefinite article ("a / an") can be used, depending on whether the object is being spoken about in general or specific terms.

PLURAL NOUNS

The indefinite article "a / an" cannot be used with plural nouns. "Some" is used instead for plural nouns when referring to an indefinite quantity of something.

UNCOUNTABLE NOUNS

The indefinite article is not usually used with uncountable nouns. The definite article is used to talk about uncountable nouns in specific terms, and the zero article is used to talk about them in general terms.

INDEFINITE ARTICLE

"A" refers to cars in general, not the car he wants to buy.

He wants to buy a new car. ✓

I've got a beautiful green coat. ✓

"A" is used because the green coat is something new that is being introduced.

The indefinite article cannot be used for plural nouns.

Sam bought a new shoes today. ✗

I've just planted some roses. ✓

"Some" suggests a limited number of roses, but the exact number is unknown.

"A / an" cannot be used with uncountable nouns.

I left a money on the table. ✗

Children should drink a milk. ✗

The definite and indefinite articles are used in different situations, and this can depend on whether they are being used with a singular, plural, or uncountable noun.

See also:

Singular and plural nouns 69

DEFINITE ARTICLE

"The" is used to talk about a specific car that the speaker and listener both know about.

Is the red car outside yours?

I want to buy the green coat hanging in the window.

The definite article is used to talk about plural nouns in specific terms.

The shoes Sam bought were very expensive.

The roses you planted outside are beautiful.

The speaker is referring to specific money that the listener already knows about, so the definite article is used.

I left the money on the table.

Milk is an uncountable noun which is being spoken about in general terms, so the definite article can't be used.

ZERO ARTICLE

This is wrong. Singular countable nouns must have an article.

I've got new car.

I've got beautiful green coat.

No article is used because "shoes" is a plural noun being spoken about in a general context.

Sam is always buying shoes.

Roses are a type of flower.

Roses are being spoken about in general terms. There's no idea of a number.

No article is used because "money" is being spoken about in a general sense.

She earns a lot of money.

Children should drink milk.

65 “This / that / these / those”

“Fewer” is only used with plural countable nouns.

I have less potatoes than I need.

“Less” is only used with uncountable nouns.

76.1 APPROXIMATE QUANTITIES

There are certain quantifying phrases used in English when exact figures are not known, or not necessary to give.

In some cases, students live off campus.

"Some" is very unspecific. The only numbers it could not mean in this example are none, one, or 15.

In a number of cases, } students can live in dorms on campus.

TIP

"Minority" and "majority" are often qualified, for example "small minority" or "vast majority."

76.2 APPROXIMATE STATISTICS

Statistics can be made more general by modifying them with words such as "approximately," "about," "just," "well," or "almost."

Approximately half of the students are from Europe.

Indicate that the quantity is not exact.

Just under a third of the assessment consists of coursework.

77 Personal pronouns

Personal pronouns are used to replace nouns in a sentence. They can refer to people or things and have different forms depending on whether they are a subject or an object.

See also:

Verb patterns with objects 53
Possession 80 Contractions R13

77.1 SUBJECT PRONOUNS

Subject pronouns replace the subject of a sentence. They are used to avoid repetition, or where a name is not known. There are no formal or informal forms of pronouns in English.

Who's he?

The subject pronoun "he" is used because the speaker doesn't know the person's name.

That's Andy. He's a policeman.

The verbs "be" and "have" are often contracted with pronouns.

"He" refers to Andy to avoid repetition.

HOW TO FORM

The pronoun used depends on how many nouns it is replacing, and person (first, second, or third.)

	FIRST PERSON	SECOND PERSON	THIRD PERSON
SINGULAR	I	you	he    she    it
PLURAL	we	you	they

FURTHER EXAMPLES

I'm turning 25 next week.

You are a great actor.

He likes driving fast.

Stuart and I are going climbing.

They complain every time.

You make a great team.

77.2 OBJECT PRONOUNS

Object pronouns replace the object of a sentence. Most of them have a different form from the equivalent subject pronoun.

There is no difference between direct and indirect object pronouns.

HOW TO FORM

SUBJECT
I	we	you	he	she	it	they me	us	you	him	her	it	them
OBJECT

FURTHER EXAMPLES

I want to tell you that I'm sorry.

"All" can be used to show that "you" is plural.
Sam invited you all to the party.

Dave asked me to go with him.

We're sad that he won't come with us.

It was a very difficult time for them.

Georgia wanted it for Christmas.

TIP
"You" is the same whether it is singular, plural, a subject, or an object.

78 Reflexive pronouns

Reflexive pronouns show that the subject of a verb is the same as its object. They can also be used in other situations to add emphasis.

See also:

Verbs patterns with objects 53

Personal pronouns 77

78.1 REFLEXIVE PRONOUNS

Reflexive pronouns in English are formed by adding the suffix “-self” or “-selves” to simple pronouns.

The subject pronoun refers to the person doing the action.

A reflexive pronoun is used when the same person is affected by the action.

He cut himself while chopping vegetables.

HOW TO FORM

OBJECT PRONOUNS	REFLEXIVE PRONOUNS
me	myself
you	yourself
you	yourself
her	herself
him	himself
it	itself
us	ourselves
them	themselves

FURTHER EXAMPLES

I left myself a reminder about the meeting.

You must prepare yourselves for this exam.

Sarah sees herself as a natural team leader.

He introduced himself to the other guests.

The door locks itself when you close it.

We pride ourselves on our customer service.

They're teaching themselves to cook.

78.2 VERBS THAT CANNOT BE REFLEXIVE

Several verbs that are followed by reflexive pronouns in other languages are not normally followed by a reflexive pronoun in English.

The verb "relax" is not followed by a reflexive pronoun.

I'm really stressed. I can't relax.

I'm really stressed. I can't relax myself.

This is wrong.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

I'll turn my music down if you can't concentrate.

He shaves every morning.

He was sick, but he's feeling better now.

She goes to bed at the same time every night.

Let's meet at the café at 2:30.

She washes her hair every evening.

I get up early every day.

I often hurry out of the house.

COMMON MISTAKES REFLEXIVE PRONOUNS

A reflexive pronoun can only be used if the subject and object of the sentence are the same. If the object is different from the subject, an object pronoun should be used instead.

The subject of the sentence is "my boss," so it is correct to use an object pronoun.

My boss invited Joe and me to the meeting.

My boss invited myself and Joe to the meeting.

"I" is not the subject of the sentence, so it is wrong to use a reflexive pronoun.

78.3 USING REFLEXIVE PRONOUNS FOR EMPHASIS

Sometimes reflexive pronouns are not essential to the grammar of the sentence, but can be used to add emphasis in different ways.

The company director gave the talk.

This sentence makes sense without a reflexive pronoun.

Adding the reflexive pronoun at the end of the clause emphasizes that the action was not done by someone else.

The company director gave the talk himself.

[The company director gave the talk, rather than getting someone else to do it.]

Adding the reflexive pronoun directly after the subject emphasizes its importance.

The company director himself gave the talk.

[The company director, who is an important person, gave the talk.]

FURTHER EXAMPLES

You don't have to do the dishes. I'll do them myself.

She's fixing her car herself. It's cheaper than taking it to the garage.

The meal itself wasn't very good, but it was a great evening.

The board members themselves will be at the meeting today.

I do my laundry myself, but my dad does my sister's for her.

I wanted us to build the furniture ourselves, but it's not going well.

78.4 REFLEXIVE COLLOCATIONS

Many collocations contain reflexive pronouns. They often follow the pattern verb plus reflexive pronoun plus preposition.

She still has to familiarize herself with company policy.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Are you leaving early today? Enjoy yourself!

The managers don't concern themselves with minor issues.

Remember to behave yourselves when you are in public.

Try to tear yourself away from the computer as often as possible.

He was sitting by himself in the café.

Reflexive pronouns are often used in the imperative. Here, "yourself" implies that "you" is the subject.

TIP

Sometimes the subject is not included, but is implied by the reflexive pronoun.

"By" is used with a reflexive pronoun to mean "alone."

78.5 "EACH OTHER"

When two or more people or things perform the same action to the other, "each other" is used instead of a reflexive pronoun.

Amy and Raj looked at each other.

[Amy looked at Raj and Raj looked at Amy.]

Amy and Raj looked at themselves in the mirror.

[Amy looked herself in the mirror and Raj looked at himself in the mirror.]

FURTHER EXAMPLES

They gave each other presents.

"One another" means the same as "each other."

The children are shouting at one another.

My cats hate each other!

We're helping each other with our homework.

79 Indefinite pronouns

Indefinite pronouns, such as "anyone," "someone," and "everyone," are used to refer to a person or object, or a group of people or objects, without explaining who or what they are.

Present simple 1

79.1 "ANYONE" AND "SOMEONE"

"Someone" and "somebody" refer to an unspecified person in a positive statement or question.
"Anyone" and "anybody" refer to an unspecified person in a question or negative statement.

Did anyone call me this morning?

Yes, someone called you at 11 o'clock.

Do you want to talk to somebody?

No, I don't want to talk to anybody.

"Anybody" means the same as "anyone," but is more informal.

"Somebody" means the same as "someone," but is more informal.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Is someone working late?

I didn't give anybody your name.

Can somebody carry my bag?

Did anyone buy a gift for Mrs. Tan?

I gave somebody a flower.

I don't know anyone in this town.

Someone gave me a present.

Did anybody here send me this letter?

79.2 "EVERYONE" AND "NO ONE"

"Everyone" refers to a whole group of people.

"No one" means no person in a group.

"No one" is written as two words.

Why is there no one in the office?

Everyone is at the big meeting.

The singular form of the verb is used with "everyone" and "everybody."

Where is everybody?

I don't know, there's nobody here.

The singular form of the verb is used with "nobody" and "no one."

"Nobody" means the same as "no one."

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Nobody wants to come with me.

I'm at the park with everyone if you'd like to join us.

Everybody has some kind of special skill.

There was nobody but me at work until 10am.

COMMON MISTAKES "NO ONE" AND "ANYONE"

"No one" and "nobody" go in positive statements and questions.

"Anyone" and "anybody" go in negative statements and questions.

This is a negative statement, so "anyone" or "anybody" is used.

There isn't anyone here. ✓

This is a negative statement, so "no one" is incorrect.

There isn't no one here. ✗

79.3 "SOMETHING" AND "ANYTHING"

"Something" and "anything" refer to an unspecified or unnamed object or thing. "Something" can only be used in questions and positive statements, whereas "anything" can be used in negative statements as well as questions and positive statements.

Here "something" has a more general meaning, as the speaker may not have a specific thing in mind.

Can I have something to eat?

Here "something" refers to a specific, unnamed thing that the speaker has in mind.

Yes, have something from the cupboard.

The singular form of the verb is used with "anything" and "something."

Is there anything I can help with?

No, there isn't anything you can do.

This statement is negative, so "anything" is used, not "something."

FURTHER EXAMPLES

"Anything" used in positive statements shows the possibilities are unlimited.

Have anything you want.

Anything baked by my grandmother tastes delicious.

There's something I need to tell you.

We don't have anything in common.

Something that I've always enjoyed is kayaking with my friends.

I know I've forgotten something, but I can't think what it is.

I'd do anything to be able to sing like her.

Something spooky happened last night.

79.4 "NOTHING" AND "EVERYTHING"

"Nothing" means that there are no available objects or things.

Tim and James have nothing in common.

There is no single thing that Tim and James have in common.

"Everything" means all the possible objects or things are available.

Tim and Dan do everything together.

Where "nothing" is used in a positive statement, "anything" can be used in a negative statement with the same meaning.

There's nothing I want to buy here.

[There isn't anything I want to buy here.]

The verb is negative.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

There's nothing I love more than a sunny day.

Everything is going well at the moment.

Nothing at the exhibition was any good.

I love that new Italian restaurant. Everything tastes so good!

I want to see everything at the museum.

I know absolutely nothing about Geography.

I do everything to the best of my ability.

Nothing interests me about politics.

80 Possession

Possessive determiners, possessive pronouns, apostrophe with "s," and the verbs "have" and "have got" are all used to express possession in English.

See also:

Forming questions 34 Verb patterns with objects 53 "This / that / these / those" 65

80.1 POSSESSIVE DETERMINERS

Possessive determiners are used before a noun to show who it belongs to. They change form depending on whether the owner is singular, plural, male, or female.

Felix is my cat.

I own the cat.

Buster is her dog.

The dog belongs to a woman.

Rachel is our daughter.

We are her parents.

Coco is your rabbit.

The rabbit belongs to you.

Polly is his parrot.

The parrot belongs to a man.

John is their son.

They are his parents.

HOW TO FORM

80.2 POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS

Possessive pronouns can also be used to explain who owns something. Unlike possessive determiners, they replace the noun they are showing possession of.

The determiner comes before the noun.

This is my car.

This car is mine.

The noun comes before the verb.

The possessive pronoun is used after the verb. It replaces "my car."

These are her books.

These books are hers.

HOW TO FORM

FURTHER EXAMPLES

This is their suitcase.

The boy is playing with his toys.

I'll bring some food to your picnic.

That suitcase is theirs.

The villa is ours.

All these toys are his.

The rest of the food is yours.

80.3 APOSTROPHE WITH "S"

An apostrophe and the letter "s" are added to the end of a singular noun to show that what comes after the noun belongs to it.

This form is correct in English, but it is not normally used.

the mother of Lizzie

Lizzie's mother

This is a common way of talking about belonging.

An apostrophe with an "s" shows ownership.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

The "s" after the apostrophe is optional when the noun already ends in an "-s."

Tess' dog

Tia's rabbit

Dave's grandmother

If something belongs to more than one noun, "-s" is only added to the last one.

Juan and Beth's parrot

The baby's toy

The dog's ball

COMMON MISTAKES APOSTROPHES

Apostrophes are often incorrectly added before the "s" when talking about years or decades.

I was born in the 1960s.

The best decade was the 70s.

I was born in the 1960's.

The best decade was the 70's.

This is neither possessive nor a contraction, so there is no need for an apostrophe.

80.4 APOSTROPHES AND PLURAL NOUNS

To show belonging with a plural noun that ends in “-s,” just an apostrophe with no “s” is added.

Ginger is my parents' cat.

Plural nouns that end with “-s” use an apostrophe with no extra “s.”

To show belonging with a plural noun that doesn’t end in “-s,” an apostrophe and an “s” are added.

Polly is our children's parrot.

This is formed in the same way as singular nouns, with an apostrophe and “s.”

FURTHER EXAMPLES

My friends' dog is called Rex.

I'm looking after my cousins' rabbit.

That is his grandparents' house.

She cares about her students' grades.

These are the men's rooms.

It depends on the people's vote.

It is important not to confuse “its” with “it’s.” “Its” is a third person singular possessive determiner, and never has an apostrophe. “It’s” is only ever a contraction of “it is.”

The dog is playing with its ball. ✓

It's a shiny, red ball. ✓

This is a possessive so needs no apostrophe.

The dog is playing with it's ball. ✗

Its a shiny, red ball. ✗

This is a contraction of “it is,” so should have an apostrophe before the “s.”

80.5 "HAVE"

The verb "have" can be used to talk about what people own.

I have a large garage.

She has a yard.

"Has" is used for the third person singular (he, she, or it).

HOW TO FORM

These subject pronouns take "have."

These subject pronouns take "has."

SUBJECT

"HAVE"

OBJECT

I
You
We They have

He She
It has a large garage.

80.6 "HAVE" NEGATIVES

Although "have" is irregular, its negative is formed in the usual way.

The negative form can also be contracted as with other verbs.

I have a bathtub.

I { do not } have a bathtub.

"Do not" can be shortened to "don't."

Jim has a bathtub.

Jim { does not } have a bathtub.

"Does not" can be shortened to "doesn't."

"Have" is always used instead of "has" in the negative.

80.7 "HAVE" AND "HAVE GOT"

"Have got" is another way to say "has" when talking about possession. "Have" is appropriate in all situations, but "have got" is only used in spoken UK English.

I have a new phone.

"I've" cannot be used in this context.

I've got a new phone.

"I have" can become "I've" when used with "got."

"Got" doesn't change when the subject changes.

I don't have a dishwasher.

I haven't got a dishwasher.

"Have not" can become "haven't" when used with "got."

Do you have your keys?

The subject sits between "do" and "have" in questions.

Have you got your keys?

The subject sits between "have" and "got" in questions.

80.8 ANSWERING "HAVE" QUESTIONS

Short answers to "have" questions can be given using "do" and "don't."

"Do" is added to form a question.

Do you have a microwave?

Yes, I do.

No, I don't.

"Do not" or "don't" go in the negative answer.

Questions and answers using "have got" are formed differently. "Have got" is mostly heard in UK English.

"Have" or "has" moves to the start of the question.

Have you got a microwave?

"Got" does not move.

Yes, I have.

No, I haven't.

"Have not" or "haven't" go in the negative answer.

81 Defining relative clauses

A relative clause is a part of a sentence that gives more information about the subject. A defining, or restrictive, relative clause identifies the subject being talked about.

See also:
Non-defining relative clauses 82

81.1 DEFINING RELATIVE CLAUSES

Defining relative clauses, also known as restrictive relative clauses, are used to describe exactly which person or thing the speaker is referring to. Without this information, the meaning of the sentence changes.

Here the defining clause gives essential information about people.

Here the defining clause gives essential information about a thing.

The defining clause can also go in the middle of the main clause.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

I need a television that works!

Do you know anyone who knows how to fix a bike?

He's the actor that we saw last week.

"That" can also be used for people.

The book that I just read is excellent.

81.2 RELATIVE PRONOUNS

English uses different relative pronouns to talk about people and things.

who that which

81.3 SUBJECTS AND OBJECTS IN DEFINING RELATIVE CLAUSES

Relative clauses are made up of a subject, a verb, and usually an object. They usually start with a relative pronoun, which can be the subject or the object of the relative clause.

HOW TO FORM

If the relative pronoun is the subject of the relative clause, it must appear in the sentence.

If the relative pronoun is the object of the relative clause, it can be left out. "Whom" is sometimes used when a person is the object, but this is very formal.

82 Non-defining relative clauses

Like defining relative clauses, non-defining relative clauses add extra information about something. However, this simply gives extra detail, rather than changing the sentence's meaning.

Quantity 75
Defining relative clauses 81

82.1 NON-DEFINING RELATIVE CLAUSES

In non-defining relative clauses, also known as non-restrictive relative clauses, "who" is used to refer to people. "Whom" can be used if the person is the object of the relative clause, but this is very formal.

"Which" is used to refer to anything that is not a person. "That" is sometimes used instead of "which," but this is often considered wrong in non-defining relative clauses.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Jay, who I used to live with, came to stay with us for a few days.

The suspect, whom we had been following, was arrested.

All the burglars were arrested, which was a great relief.

The relative pronoun can refer to the entire previous clause.

Our new house, which is by the beach, is beautiful.

HOW TO FORM

Non-defining relative clauses can come in the middle of a sentence, or at the end.

If the relative clause comes in the middle, commas must go either side of it. If it comes after the whole main clause, a comma must go at the end of the main clause.

MAIN CLAUSE

NON-DEFINING RELATIVE CLAUSE

We spoke to Linda

A comma must go before the non-defining relative clause.

The non-defining relative clause comes at the end of the sentence.

Commas go before and after the non-defining relative clause.

The non-defining relative clause comes between the subject and the main verb.

82.2 QUANTIFIERS WITH NON-DEFINING RELATIVE CLAUSES

In non-defining relative clauses, quantifiers can be used to say how many people or things the relative clause refers to. In these structures, "who" becomes "of whom," and "which" becomes "of which."

QUANTIFIER + OF + WHOM

I teach many students, all of whom are very talented.

QUANTIFIER + OF + WHICH

I teach many classes, some of which are very difficult.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

My brother and sister, both of whom live in Ireland, are coming to visit.

Lots of people, many of whom are famous, will be at the event.

I have four essays due next week, none of which are ready.

Tommy has three pets, two of which are cats.

83 Other relative structures

Relative words introduce phrases that describe a noun in the main part of the sentence. Different relative words are used to refer to different types of nouns.

83.1 "WHERE," "WHEN," AND "WHEREBY"

"Where" is the relative word used to refer to a place.

[This house is the thing which we were looking for.]

FURTHER EXAMPLES

I don't know what it is, but I'm excited to open it!

These paintings are what I've been spending all my time on.

COMMON MISTAKES WORD ORDER WITH RELATIVE STRUCTURES

If a relative structure uses a question word such as "where" or "what," the word order in the clause following this word should be left as normal and should not be formed like a question.

This is correct.

This is just what we were looking for. ✓

This is just what were we looking for. ✗

Do not invert the subject and verb.

84 Question words with “-ever”

Adding “-ever” to question words changes their meaning. These words can be adverbs or determiners in their own clauses, or they can join two clauses together.

summer, I know it'll be great.

However he managed to break it,
I'm not sure we'll be able to fix it.

84.2 "WHICHEVER" AND "WHATEVER" AS DETERMINERS

"Whichever" and "whatever" can come before nouns to show that the options are unspecified.

I'm sure you'll love whichever dog you choose.

[It doesn't matter which dog you choose, you'll love it.]

If you need help for whatever reason, just let me know.

[It doesn't matter what the reason is, let me know if you need help.]

84.3 OTHER USES OF "WHENEVER" AND "HOWEVER"

"Whenever" can also mean "every time that."

It always seems to rain whenever I go away.

[Any time I go away, it rains.]

"However" is often used before an adjective, as an adverb, to mean "to whatever extent."

If there's a chance of rain, however small, I'll take an umbrella.

86 Introductory “it”

“It” is often used when a sentence has no clear subject, and is sometimes known as a dummy subject or empty subject.

Defining relative clauses 81

Non-defining relative clauses 82

86.1 “IT” AS A DUMMY SUBJECT

“It” is used to talk about the time, dates, distance, or the weather. In these sentences, “it” doesn’t have a specific meaning, but it serves as the grammatical subject of the sentence.

“It” can be used to talk about the time.

What time is it?

It's 3 o'clock.

“It” can be used to talk about distances.

How far is it to the beach?

It's 1 mile that way.

“It” can be used to talk about the day, date, month, or year.

What day is it?

It's Tuesday.

“It” can be used to talk about the weather.

What's the weather like today?

It's cloudy and raining.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

I'm going to walk to work.
It's only two miles away.

It's the 21st century. I can't believe you still use that phone.

I'm surprised that it's so sunny in the middle of January.

86.2 INTRODUCTORY “IT”

Certain set phrases beginning "it is" can be used at the start of a sentence. "It" is the subject of the sentence, and can be used to express a general truth or belief.

"IT" CLAUSE                            INFITIVE CLAUSE

It is easy to make mistakes in a new language.

- Some "it" clauses are followed by a "to" infinitive.

"IT" CLAUSE                            "THAT" CLAUSE

It is difficult to remember facts if you don't write them down.

It's unlikely that you will be comfortable speaking aloud at first.

It's true that being able to speak a second language is useful.

It is often said that going to the country of the language helps.

87 Shifting focus

"It" clauses, "what" clauses, or moving a noun to the front of a sentence can all be used to put emphasis on a certain word or phrase.

See also:

Types of verbs 49 Defining relative clauses 81
Non-defining relative clauses 82

87.1 FOCUSING WITH "IT" CLAUSES

Part of a sentence can be emphasized by adding "it is" or "it was" before it, and "that" after it. This can correct a misunderstanding or emphasize something unexpected.

You've met my friend John before, haven't you?

This stresses that it wasn't John who I met before.

"That" is added before the main verb.

No, it was your friend Michael that I met.

"It is" or "it was" is added before the noun phrase to be focused.

"Your friend Michael" is now the focus of the sentence.

The main verb moves to the end.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

The second clause is a relative clause. It is most commonly introduced by "that," "which," or "who." "When" and "where" can also be used, but they're less formal.

It is the engine that I need to replace.

It was summertime when Zoe last saw her cousins.

It was the doctor who I needed to call.

It was in a bar where Olly first met his wife.

It was the cold weather which made me sick.

It was the price which changed my mind.

It was my colleague who prepared the food.

It was the toaster that set off the fire alarm.

87.2 FOCUSING WITH "WHAT" CLAUSES

Simple statements can be made more emphatic by adding "what" with the verb "be." This structure is often used with verbs expressing emotions, such as "love," "hate," "like," and "want."

Would you like to go to a movie?

No, thanks. What I really want is to go to bed early.

"What" is added to the start of the sentence.

This has more emphasis than "I really want to go to bed early."

The focused information is put outside the "what" clause.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

What we hated was the bad service.

What I like here is the weather.

What they loved the most were the museums.

What she enjoys the most is the music.

87.3 FOCUSING WITH A NOUN

If the subject of the sentence cannot be replaced with "what" (for example, people, places, or times) a general noun that has a similar meaning can be used.

I've been to many countries.
The place I most enjoyed visiting was Nepal.

I've read about some great people.
The woman I respect the most is Marie Curie.

I don't know why the show was canceled.
The reason they gave was not good enough.

I have lots of fun memories.
The evening I remember most is my first concert.

88 Inversion

Reversing the normal order of words, or inversion, can be used for emphasis or a sense of drama. It is common after certain types of adverbials.

See also:

Present simple 1 Types of verbs 49
Adverbs of frequency 102

88.1 INVERSION AFTER NEGATIVE ADVERBIALS

In more formal or literary texts, inversion of a verb and its subject is used for emphasis after negative adverbial phrases like "not only," "not since," and "only when."

In this simple sentence, the subject comes before the verb.

She is a famous singer. She is also a very good actor.

Not only is she a famous singer, but she's also a very good actor.

After the negative adverbial, the subject and the verb swap places.

"But" is optional.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

The auxiliary and subject swap places.

Not since my childhood have I enjoyed a performance so much.

Not until the performance was over did he look up at the audience.

Where there is no auxiliary verb, "do" is used.

Only if it stops raining will the race go ahead this afternoon.

Only when he emerged from the car did the fans start cheering.

Only after the race did he realize what he had achieved.

Little did they know how lucky they are to be successful.

Little did they realize how difficult fame would be.

88.2 INVERSION AFTER TIME ADVERBIALS

Inversion can be used after time adverbials that are negative or restrictive, such as "no sooner" and "never before." This emphasizes the time at which something happens, or happened.

In this simple sentence, the subject comes before the verb.

Tina had just released an album when she starred in her first movie.

No sooner had Tina released an album than she starred in her first movie.

The subject ("Tina") and the auxiliary verb ("had") swap places.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Hardly had she stepped out of the car when fans surrounded her.

Never before had a song reached the top of the charts so quickly.

Rarely do you meet a celebrity with such talent and style.

Only sometimes does it not snow during the ski season.

88.3 INVERSION AFTER "SO" AND "NEITHER"

In order to agree with a positive statement, "be" and its subject, or an auxiliary and its subject can be inverted after "so." For a negative statement, the same is done after "neither." For a sentence that doesn't have an auxiliary, "do" is used when it is inverted.

I've never been to China.

Neither have I.

I need to get some new clothes.

So do I.

When there is no auxiliary verb, "do" is used.

I'm excited for the party tonight.

So am I!

89 Ellipsis

Some words can be left out of a sentence to avoid repetition, or when the meaning can be understood without them. This is called ellipsis.

See also:

Question words 35

Coordinating conjunctions 110

89.1 ELLIPSIS AFTER CONJUNCTIONS

When two phrases are joined by "and," "but," or "or" it is common to leave out repeated words of various kinds.

He bought tickets, but [he] didn't go.

Often a repeated subject is dropped after "and," "but," or "or."

She loved the original and [she loved] the sequel.

If the meaning remains clear, a repeated subject and verb can be dropped.

I'm happy to go out or [I'm happy to] stay home.

If the meaning is clear, words that have already been mentioned and do not require repetition can be omitted.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

She said she'd call, but she didn't [call].

Please may I have a knife and [a] fork?

I hope my camera works, but I don't think it will [work].

I'd love to be a boxer, but I'm not strong enough [to be a boxer].

You can watch the documentary or [you can watch] the cartoon.

I can't decide if I want a burger or [I want] a hotdog.

89.2 CONVERSATIONAL ELLIPSIS

Words can also be left out of sentences if the meaning can be understood from the context. This kind of ellipsis does not have strict rules, and is very common in informal everyday speech, particularly when giving replies.

What time does the movie start?

Eight.

[It starts at eight o'clock.]

What kind of popcorn would you like?

Salted, please.

[I would like salted popcorn, please.]

What did you think of the film?

Complete nonsense.

[I thought the film was complete nonsense.]

89.3 QUESTION WORD CLAUSES

Clauses can be dropped after question words such as "who," "what," "where," and "how."

Somebody stole my watch, but I don't know who [stole it].

I want to buy my dad a present, but I'm not sure what [to buy him].

I want to go away, but I can't decide where [to go].

I need to fix my car, and I'm fairly certain I know how [to fix it].

90 Shortening infinitives

Phrases with infinitives can sometimes be reduced or shortened to prevent repetition. This helps language to sound more natural.

See also:
Infinitives and participles 51

90.1 REDUCED INFINITIVES

Instead of repeating the whole infinitive clause, "to" can be used on its own if the meaning remains clear.

Let's see that new DJ tonight.

I don't really want to [see the new DJ].

If the previous sentence or clause contains the verb "be," then the full infinitive "to be" must be used, rather than just "to."

She was really critical of the new album.

It's difficult not to be [critical of it].
The singing is awful!

FURTHER EXAMPLES

He asked me if I wanted to cook tonight, but I'd prefer not to.

All my friends are going to the basketball game, but I don't want to.

I was going to bring an umbrella, but I decided not to.

There are more flowers in the garden than there used to be.

This packaging isn't recyclable, but it ought to be.

90.2 DROPPING THE ENTIRE INFINITIVE CLAUSE

The entire infinitive clause can be dropped, or "to" can be kept on its own after some verbs, such as "agree," "ask," "forget," "promise," "start," and "try."

Chris is going to come to the show. He {promised [to come].
{promised to [come].

The same structure can also be used after some nouns, such as: "chance," "plans," "promise," "idea," and "opportunity."

I haven't seen this band before. I'd love the {chance [to see them].
{chance to [see them].

The same structure can also be used after certain adjectives, such as "delighted," "afraid," "willing," and "determined."

I want to perform on stage, but I'm {afraid [to perform on stage].
{afraid to [perform on stage].

FURTHER EXAMPLES

We need to leave soon, but I'm not ready.

They told me I could join the team if I wanted to.

I would travel the world if I had the money.

I'm going to pass my driving test. I'm determined to.

I want to go out, but I haven't got any plans.

Remind me to lock the door, or I'll forget to.

I would never do a bungee jump. I don't have the courage.

Thanks for asking me to come to your wedding. I'd love to.

90.3 VERBS WITH COMPLEMENTS

The entire infinitive clause cannot be left out after verbs that have complement clauses (phrases that complete their meaning), such as: "advise," "afford," "be able," "choose," "decide," "expect," "hate," "hope," "love," "need," and "prefer." "To" must be used after these.

We want to see a band tonight, but we really can't afford to.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

I tried to get to the front of the crowd, but I wasn't able to.

You could bring some snacks along, but you don't need to.

I had piano lessons as a child, but I didn't choose to.

I have never been to the opera, but I would love to.

90.4 "WANT" AND "WOULD LIKE"

The "to" of the infinitive clause is not usually dropped after "want" or "would like."

He asked if I wanted to go, and I said I would like to.

In "if" clauses, however, "to" can be used on its own or the whole infinitive can be dropped after "want" or "would like."

You can come with us if you { want.
want to.

The "to" cannot be dropped in a negative clause.

Don't go to the concert if you don't want to.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

We could play golf this weekend, if you want.

I asked my friends to play, but they didn't want to.

90.5 SHORTENING INFINITIVES

Sometimes "to" can be used instead of repeating the whole infinitive.

Do you go to Spain every year?

We used to.

[We used to go to Spain every year.]

After nouns and adjectives, sometimes the whole infinitive can be left out.

Are you ready to leave?

No, I'm not ready yet.

[I'm not ready to leave yet.]

However the verbs "be" and "have" are not usually omitted when they are used for possession.

She isn't paid much, but she ought to be.

[She ought to be paid more.]

"She ought to" is wrong.

It's also not usually possible to leave out "to" after "like," "love," "hate," "prefer," "want," and "choose."

Do you want to go to the festival?

I'd like to.

"I'd like" is wrong.

Do you want to cook tonight?

I'd prefer not to.

"I'd prefer not" is unlikely.

91 Substitution

As well as ellipsis (leaving words out), repetition can be avoided by replacing some phrases with shorter ones. This is called substitution.

See also:

Countable and uncountable nouns 70
The past simple 7

91.1 SUBSTITUTING WITH “ONE / ONES” AND “SOME”

“One” and “ones” can be used to replace singular and plural countable nouns.

“Ones” can only be used to refer to a specific group of things. “Some” is used when the group is not defined, and to replace uncountable nouns.

SINGLE COUNTABLE NOUNS

Does anyone have a copy of the book?

Yes, I have one.

“One” replaces
“a copy of the book.”

PLURAL COUNTABLE NOUNS

Are there any bookstores near here?

Yes, there are some on Main Street.

There are a few great ones across town.

“Ones” can only be used if modified to define the specific things that are meant.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

I got a raise at work, even though I didn't ask for one.

I knitted some scarves and sold a few.

Those new computers look great. I want one for my birthday.

I went shopping for dresses and found some lovely ones.

I need a new phone, but I don't know where would be the best place to buy one.

I saw there were new pastries at the bakery, so I thought I'd try some.

91.2 SUBSTITUTING WITH "DO"

Verbs and their complements can also be used with substitute words to avoid repetition. "Do" and "did" are often used to replace present and past simple tense verbs, for example.

There's water everywhere.
Should I call a plumber?

Oh no! Yes, do.

"Do" prevents repetition of
'call a plumber'

I think this homework is really difficult.

I did too, so I asked for help.

I don't. It's easy.

Different forms of
"do" replace "think."

FURTHER EXAMPLES

I need to brush my teeth more.

Yes, it's important that you do.

I thought the exam was really easy.

I didn't. I really struggled.

91.3 SUBSTITUTING WITH "SO" AND "NOT"

In positive clauses after verbs of thinking, "so" can be used to avoid repetition. "Not" or "not... so" are used in negative sentences.

Will she be signing copies of her book?

No, I don't think so.

I hope so!

I'm afraid not.

FURTHER EXAMPLES SUBSTITUTING NEGATIVES WITH "NOT... SO" AND "NOT"

It appears not.

I don't imagine so.

"Not... so" is used with "think,"
"believe," "expect," and "imagine."

It doesn't seem so.

I hope not.

"Not" or "not... so" are used with "appear," "seem," and "suppose."

"Not" is used with "hope," "assume,"
and "be afraid" (when "afraid" means "sorry").

92 Adjectives

Adjectives are words that describe nouns. In English, they usually come before the noun that they are describing. There are several categories of adjective.

See also:
Singular and plural nouns 69

92.1 USING ADJECTIVES

Adjectives in English are usually placed before the noun they describe. They do not change form to agree with the noun.

He is a busy man.

She is a busy woman.

Adjectives are the same for nouns that describe males or females.

It is a busy town.

These are busy streets.

Adjectives are the same for singular and plural nouns.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

This is a red shirt.

It's a cold day.

These are tall buildings.

She does great concerts.

92.2 OTHER WAYS TO USE ADJECTIVES

See also:
Adjectives 92
Adverbs of degree 100

93.1 GRADABLE ADJECTIVES

Gradable adjectives can be modified by adverbs to make the adjective's original meaning more or less powerful.

Adverbs change the strength of the adjective.

Things can be more or less "good," so it is a gradable adjective.

This book is very good!

This book is fairly good.

This book is not very good.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Edmund is extremely talented.

Edmund is reasonably talented.

Edmund is not particularly talented.

This soup is really tasty!

This soup is pretty tasty.

93.2 NON-GRADABLE ADJECTIVES

Non-gradable adjectives cannot usually be modified. These adjectives tend to fall into three categories: extreme, absolute, and classifying.

Non-gradable adjectives like "fantastic" cannot be modified by adverbs.

Her arguments were fantastic!*

EXTREME ADJECTIVES

Extreme adjectives are stronger versions of gradable adjectives, such as "awful," "hilarious," "fantastic," or "terrifying."

The idea of "extremely" is in the meaning of "awful" already.

Her presentation was awful.*

ABSOLUTE ADJECTIVES

Absolute adjectives cannot be graded because they describe fixed qualities or states, such as "unique," "perfect," or "impossible."

It is not possible for something to be more or less unique.

She has a unique presenting style.

CLASSIFYING ADJECTIVES

Classifying adjectives are used to say that something is of a specific type or class, such as "American," "nuclear," or "medical."

94 Comparative adjectives

Comparative adjectives are used to compare two things. They can either be formed by adding the suffix “-er,” or by putting “more” or “less” before the adjective.

See also:
Singular and plural nouns 69
Adjectives 92

94.1 COMPARATIVE ADJECTIVES

For most adjectives with one or two syllables, “-er” is added to make the comparative.

Ahmed is tall.
Ahmed is taller than Jonathan.

“-er” is added to make the comparative.

“Than” is used to introduce the thing that the subject is being compared to.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Dean is stronger than Carlos.

5°F is colder than 85°F.

Sanjay is younger than Tina.

Emma is older than Sharon.

My friends are quicker than me.

COMMON MISTAKES “THAN” WITH COMPARATIVES

“Then” and “than” can easily be confused because they sound similar, but it is never correct to use “then” to form a comparative.

Ahmed is taller than Jonathan.

The correct word to use in comparatives is “than.”

Ahmed is taller then Jonathan.

“Then” sounds similar to “than,” but it is not correct to use “then” after a comparative.

94.2 FORMING COMPARATIVES

There are different rules for forming comparatives depending on the ending of the simple form of the adjective.

ADJECTIVE

close closer

If the adjective ends in
"-e," just an "-r" is added.

COMPARATIVE

early earlier

For some adjectives ending in "-y," the "-y" is removed and "-ier" added.

bigger

For single-syllable adjectives ending consonant-vowelconsonant, the final letter is doubled and "-er" added.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

An elephant is larger than a rhino.

My bedroom is tidier than my sister's.

Spain is hotter than England.

94.3 IRREGULAR COMPARATIVES

Some common adjectives have irregular comparatives.

good better bad worse

far farther (US)

further (UK)

TIP

In US English,
"further" and "furthest" figurative (not physical) distances.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

The house is farther away than the tree.

Jill got a better grade than John.

London has worse
weather than Paris.

94.4 COMPARATIVES WITH LONG ADJECTIVES

For some two-syllable adjectives and adjectives with three syllables or more, "more" and "than" are used to make the comparative.

This beach is more beautiful than that one.

The adjective "beautiful" has three syllables, so "beautifuller" is not correct.

This beach is less beautiful than that one.

"More" can be replaced by "less" to give the opposite meaning.

HOW TO FORM

SUBJECT + VERB

"MORE / LESS"

ADJECTIVE

"THAN"

REST OF SENTENCE

This beach is

94.5 TWO-FORM COMPARATIVES

Some two-syllable adjectives have two possible comparative forms. Either the comparative ending can be added, or "more" can be used before the adjective.

My cat is { friendlier more friendly } than my dog.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

The garage is { narrower more narrow } than the car.

The lake is { shallower more shallow } than the sea.

more simple } than that one.

My parrot is { quieter more quiet } than yours.

This party is { livelier more lively } than yours.

The driver is { angrier more angry } than the cyclist.

COMMON MISTAKES FORMING COMPARATIVES

When forming comparatives, it is incorrect to add "more" before the adjective if it already has a comparative ending.

He's more friendly than her.

"Friendlier" and "more friendly" are correct, but "more friendlier" is not.

He's friendlier than her.

He's more friendlier than her.

94.6 ADJECTIVES WITH MODIFIERS

Modifiers can go before comparatives to make comparisons stronger or weaker.

The tree is { a lot much } taller than the building.

These modifiers mean there is a big difference between the things you are comparing.

Modifier
Comparative

The tree is { a bit slightly } taller than the building.

These modifiers mean there is only a small difference between the things you are comparing.

The palace is { much far } more beautiful than the factory.

With long comparatives, the modifier goes before "more."

FURTHER EXAMPLES

95 Two comparatives together

Two comparatives can be used together in a sentence to show the effect of an action. They are also used to show that something is changing.

See also:
Comparative adjectives 94

95.1 COMPARATIVES SHOWING CAUSE AND EFFECT

Pairing two phrases that use comparative adjectives is a way of making comparisons that show cause and effect.

The harder I train, the stronger I get.

Implies that training results in getting stronger.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

The worse the children behave, the angrier the teacher gets.

The louder the cat meows, the louder the dog barks.

95.2 SHORTENING COMPARATIVE PHRASES

Double comparatives that end with "the better" are often shortened where the context makes the meaning obvious to the listener.

How do you like your tea?

The stronger the better.

The stronger [the tea is,] the better [it tastes].

These words are implied, or understood, and can be left out.

"The more the merrier" is a phrase that means when more people are at an event, the better it will be.

Can I bring my brother along?

Sure! The more the merrier.

This expression means people are welcome.

The more [people come,] the merrier [the party will be].

HOW TO FORM

FURTHER EXAMPLES

What time do we need to leave?

The sooner the better.

Do we need to take a big suitcase?

Yes. The bigger the better.

95.3 COMPARATIVES SHOWING CHANGE

A comparative can be repeated to show that something is changing. This expression emphasizes the change, and is often used to describe extremes.

The weather is getting colder and colder.

The repetition emphasizes that the change is continuing.

"And" goes between the repeated comparatives.

95.4 LONG COMPARATIVES SHOWING CHANGE

In two comparatives that go with long adjectives, "more" is repeated but the adjective is not.

"More" is repeated.

The adjective is only used once, after the second "more."

FURTHER EXAMPLES

His music is getting more and more annoying.

My job has become more and more stressful.

96 "As... as" comparisons

Comparisons using "as... as" constructions can be used to discuss degrees of similarity and difference. They can be modified with adverbs to make them stronger or weaker.

See also:
Adjectives 92
Adverbs of degree 100

96.1 "AS... AS" COMPARISONS

"As... as" comparisons are used with an adjective to compare things that are similar.

Lisa is as tall as Marc.

The adjective is in its normal form.

Penny is not {as so} tall as Marc.

"Not" makes the sentence negative.

"So" is only used in negative comparisons.

HOW TO FORM

SUBJECT + VERB      "AS"      ADJECTIVE      "AS"      REST OF SENTENCE

Lisa is      as      tall      as      Marc.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Will today be as hot as yesterday?

Emphasizing equality.

The girls were almost as loud as the boys.

Comparing similarity.

The movie is not quite as good as the book.

Specific degree of difference.

The mouse is nowhere near as big as the bird.

Emphasizing difference.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Sita is almost as frightened as Justin.

George is almost as tired as Hetty.

I think fruit is just as delicious as cake.

Seth is nowhere near as old as Mabel.

The door is half as wide as the window.

The skyscraper is not quite as tall as the mountain.

97 Superlative adjectives

Superlative adjectives, such as “the biggest” or “the smallest,” are used to talk about extremes. Long adjectives take “most” and “least” to show an extreme.

See also:
Articles 63 Adjectives 92
Comparative adjectives 94

97.1 SUPERLATIVE ADJECTIVES

For most adjectives with one or two syllables, “-est” is added to make the superlative.

Horses are faster than dogs, but cheetahs are the fastest land animals.

The definite article (“the”) is always used before the superlative.

The comparative describes the difference between two things.

The superlative describes which thing is the most extreme.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Giraffes are the tallest animals in the world.

Blue whales are the largest animals in the world.

Sloths are the slowest animals in the zoo.

Dolphins are the smartest animals in the world.

HOW TO FORM

SUBJECT + VERB

“THE” + SUPERLATIVE

REST OF SENTENCE

Cheetahs are the fastest

97.2 FORMING SUPERLATIVES

There are different rules for forming superlatives depending on the ending of the simple form of the adjective.

close

big

SUPERLATIVE

closest earliest biggest

If the adjective ends in "-e," "-st" is added.

For some adjectives ending in "-y," the "-y" is removed and "-iest" added.

For adjectives ending consonant-vowel-consonant, the final letter is doubled and "-est" is added.

EXAMPLES

Driving is the easiest way to get there.

The firefighter was the bravest person I'd ever met.

This has been the hottest summer in years!

97.3 IRREGULAR SUPERLATIVES

Some common adjectives have irregular superlatives.

good

SUPERLATIVE best worst farthest (US) furthest (UK)

EXAMPLES

School days are the best days of your life.

I was the worst at drawing in my art class.

I lived the farthest from school of all my friends.

97.4 SUPERLATIVES WITH LONG ADJECTIVES

For some two-syllable adjectives and for adjectives of three syllables or more, use "the most" or "the least" before the adjective to form the superlative.

The motorcycle is more expensive than the scooter, but the sports car is the most expensive vehicle.

"The most" is used with the adjective.

The adjective stays the same.
"Expensivest" is not a valid form.

The motorcycle is less expensive than the sports car, but the scooter is the least expensive vehicle.

"The least" means the opposite of "the most."

HOW TO FORM

SUBJECT + VERB

"THE" + MOST / LEAST

ADJECTIVE

REST OF SENTENCE

This is the most expensive

dish on the menu.

the least

FURTHER EXAMPLES

The science museum is the most interesting museum in town.

This is the least comfortable chair in the room.

The Twister is the most exciting ride in the theme park.

Teacups are the least enjoyable ride in the theme park.

COMMON MISTAKES FORMING SUPERLATIVES

When forming superlatives, it is incorrect to add "most" before the adjective if it already has a superlative ending.

"Best" is already a superlative adjective so "most" is unnecessary.

I am most best at running.

I am the best at running.

97.5 SUPERLATIVES WITH MODIFIERS

"Easily" or "by far" can make superlative adjectives more specific.
"One of" shows that the superlative belongs to a group of things.

The clock tower is easily the tallest building in the town.

These modifiers make the superlative stronger.

"One of" makes the superlative part of a group.

With long superlatives the modifier goes before "the."

The clock tower is one of the most imposing buildings in the town.

If "one of" is used with superlatives, the noun must be in plural form.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Sally is easily the tallest person I know.

Tim is easily the shortest person I know.

Physics is one of the most confusing subjects I study.

This hostel is by far the cheapest place to stay.

HELLO!

He speaks loudly.

"Loudly" describes how he speaks.

98.2 HOW TO FORM

Most adverbs of manner are formed by adding "-ly" to the adjective. If the adjective ends in "-y," the "-y" is left out and "-ily" is added to make the adverb.

The "-y" is dropped.
"-ily" is added.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

A tortoise moves slowly.

Horses can run quickly.

She sings beautifully.

The adverb is the same as the adjective.

straight

early

Adjectives ending "-ly" don't change to become adverbs.

early

FURTHER EXAMPLES

It's dangerous to drive fast.

Kris often arrives late.

The job didn't last long.

98.4 ADVERBS WITH THE SAME FORM AS ADJECTIVES

This means "small."

Chop the onion into fine pieces.

This means "good."

I'm fine.

Chop it finely.

I'm doing fine.

The adverb is formed in the usual way by adding "-ly" to the adjective. "Fine" is incorrect here.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

It's free for children.

Children are admitted free.

We advocate free speech.

You can speak freely.

99 Comparative and superlative adverbs

COMPARATIVE

My colleague always works later than me.

SUPERLATIVE

My boss always stays the latest.

100 Adverbs of degree

Adverbs of degree can be placed in front of adjectives and verbs to strengthen or weaken their original meaning. Some adverbs can only be paired with certain adjectives.

100.1 GRADING ADVERBS

Adverbs that can be used with gradable adjectives are called grading adverbs. They can be used to make an adjective's meaning stronger or weaker.

This book is { very

What you need is a really {good great} idea.

Gradable

You need to be fairly {confident certain} it works.

Non-gradable

Inventing a new product is pretty {difficult impossible}.

100.4 "QUITE"

"Quite" can be used with both gradable and non-gradable adjectives. In US English, it usually means "very." In UK English, it weakens gradable adjectives to mean "not very," but strengthens non-gradable adjectives to mean "very" or "completely."

Her invention is quite incredible.

100.5 USING ADVERBS OF DEGREE TO DESCRIBE VERBS

See also:
Forming questions 34

HOW TO FORM

Adverbs of frequency usually go between the subject and the main verb. The time phrase usually goes at the end of the sentence.

102.2 ADVERBS AND EXPRESSIONS OF FREQUENCY

Frequency can also be described with more precise expressions.
Unlike adverbs of frequency, these must sit at the end of a phrase.

The adverb of frequency usually goes before the verb.

I { often regularly hardly ever } go running.

Precise frequency expressions usually go at the end of a phrase.

This comma is replacing "and" in the list.

Another comma is used before the "and."

The "and" is kept between the final two nouns.

110.3 "OR"

"Or" is most often used to list two or more choices or alternatives.

"Or" is used if there is a choice.

If a coordinating conjunction is joining two items, there is no need for a comma.

If "and" or "or" is joining three or more items, a comma is usually added between each item and before the conjunction.

111.1 SUBORDINATING CONJUNCTIONS FOR PURPOSE

"So that" can be used to talk about the purpose of an action. It is followed by another clause.

ACTION

PURPOSE

He complained so that he'd get a refund.

"So that" is often followed by modal verbs such as "can," "could," and "would."

"In order to" has a similar meaning to "so that," but it's followed by a verb in its base form.

He called the company in order to complain.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

She went back to the store in order to show them her receipt.

If the main verb is in the past tense, the verb after "so that" usually refers to the past.

She reported the problem so that it could be fixed.

The assistant took the receipt to process the refund.

In informal speech, "in order" is often dropped.

If the main verb is in the present tense, the verb after "so that" usually refers to the present or future.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

Although I've done it before, I found the run very difficult.

Even though I have two cousins, I've never met them.

111.4 "WHEN"

English uses "when" as a conjunction to talk about events or actions in the future that must happen before another event or action can take place. These phrases are called subordinate time clauses and are usually used with the present simple.

When it gets dark, he'll light the fire.

"When" indicates that the first event has not happened yet.

FURTHER EXAMPLES

When I finish my report, I'll call you.

I'll put up shelves when the paint dries.

When you get home, will you make dinner?

ANOTHER WAY TO SAY IT

UK English sometimes uses the present perfect instead of the present simple in subordinate time clauses.

When it has stopped raining, we'll go outside.

We'll go outside when it has stopped raining.

We won't go outside until it has stopped raining.

The present perfect still describes a future event.

111.5 "AS SOON AS"

NOW

I'll call you as soon as I leave work.

[I'll call you immediately when I leave work.]

COMMON MISTAKES TENSES AFTER TIME CONJUNCTIONS

Future forms are not used after "when" and "as soon as," even if the clause is referring to the future.

The present simple describes the first event, even though it is a future event.

When it gets dark, he'll light the fire. ✓

When it will get dark, he'll light the fire. ✗

Even though this refers to the future, it is incorrect to use a future form.
